WE BRING THE THEATRE TO YOU

This educational production is aimed at Key Stage 2 children and helps reinforce the National Curriculum and shows them the benefits of reading in an entertaining way.

We believe that children absorb information more quickly when it is presented in an enjoyable way and we pride ourselves on productions that will make you laugh and learn.

This lively and energetic show will teach children the importance of reading through comedy and song.

Jack has to stay in the house all day, but he doesn't mind because he is going to play on his play station and watch a DVD. But then the lights go out, everything turns off, Dad is working downstairs on the electrics and Jack is left with no games and no television. The whole day stretches out before him.... boring!

Then he hears someone.....

It's the book keeper, who suggests that Jack read a book but the idea horrifies Jack. A book, why would he want to read a book?

The book keeper explains to Jack that reading will help him in so many ways and tells him how much fun he will have. The book keeper brings to life characters from different books and Jack soon finds himself in the middle of his very own story.
